

Your First Book in 48 Hours

The Genie quick-start guide

Welcome! Genie is your complete book production studio: it researches, writes, formats, and illustrates professional books for Amazon KDP and beyond. This guide takes you from a blank screen to a finished, upload-ready book in about two days. Keep it next to you for your first run; after that you will not need it.

Before you start (10 minutes, once)

1. You have already installed and activated Genie (if you can talk to it, you are done with setup).
2. Open your terminal or VS Code in the Genie folder and start your engine (Claude Code or Codex).
3. Type: "Genie, standup" and press Enter. Genie introduces itself and reports its status. First run on a new computer takes a few extra minutes while Genie finishes preparing its reference libraries; it will tell you what it is doing.

That is the whole setup. Everything else in this guide is one message at a time.

Hour 0 to 1: choose your book

You need exactly one thing to start: a book idea. Three ways to get one:

- You already know. A cookbook for a specific diet, a study guide, a travel guide, a children's book: if you have the idea, skip ahead.
- Ask Genie for ideas (PRO and MAX packs): say "Genie, find me 5 promising niches in [area I care about]" and Genie researches live Amazon data: what sells, what is crowded, where the gaps are.

- Validate your idea first (PRO and MAX): say "Genie, validate this niche: [your idea]" before committing.

Title tips: say what the book is and who it is for, in the words a buyer would type into Amazon. "High Protein Cottage Cheese Cookbook" beats "Culinary Adventures with Curds." Genie will automatically check your title for trademark conflicts before any writing starts, and will warn you honestly if the title is risky.

Hour 1: the one message that starts everything

Send Genie a single message with your book brief. Template:

Genie, write this book:
Title: [your exact title]
Marketplace: [Amazon.com / Amazon.co.uk / ...]
Language: [English (US) / ...]
Pages per chapter: [e.g. 8]
Maximum pages: [e.g. 120]
Special instructions: [anything non-negotiable: audience, must-have topics, things to avoid]

A real example:

Genie, write this book:
Title: Mediterranean Diet Cookbook for Busy Families
Marketplace: Amazon.com
Language: English (US)
Pages per chapter: 8
Maximum pages: 130
Special instructions: audience is working parents, every recipe under 30 minutes, include a 14-day meal plan.

That is it. Genie takes it from here.

Hours 1 to 36: what happens automatically

Genie now runs the full production line. You will see it:

- 1. Clear the title (trademark screen; risky titles are stopped with safer alternatives offered).
- 2. Research the market (PRO/MAX): competitors, pricing, keywords.
- 3. Design the book: outline, chapter plan, and a unique interior design; no two Genie books look alike.
- 4. Write chapter by chapter. After EVERY chapter you receive the finished chapter as both a Word file and a PDF, exactly as it will print, full color formatting included.

Your only job during this phase: skim each chapter preview. If something is off, say so in plain words: "Genie, chapter 3: make the tone warmer and fix the second recipe's servings." Genie corrects it and re-delivers before moving on.

Want it hands-free? Say "Genie, run on autopilot" and it will proceed chapter to chapter without waiting, still delivering every preview.

Want your own look? Say "Genie, customize formatting for [cookbooks/travel guides/...]" and answer its questions once; every future book in that category uses your style.

Hours 36 to 48: finishing touches

When the last chapter passes quality control, Genie automatically:

- assembles the complete manuscript (Word + print-ready PDF, checked page by page against print margins);
- reworks the table of contents so every page number is exact;
- generates interior images where the content needs them;
- PRO/MAX: produces your cover (front, back, spine, and the full print wrap, measured on Amazon's official calculator) and A+ content images for your product page;
- PRO/MAX: writes your complete KDP metadata package: description, the 7 backend keywords, and category picks, delivered as its own document next to the manuscript.

Publishing

- MAX pack: say "Genie, publish [Title] to KDP." With you logged in to your KDP account, Genie fills in everything from the metadata package and shows you a final summary. You always make the final Publish click yourself, and you always enter your own account, bank, and tax details; Genie never touches those.
- Starter and PRO: upload manually at kdp.amazon.com: create a new title, paste the metadata Genie gave you, upload the manuscript PDF and cover file, order a proof if you want one, and publish. It takes about 20 minutes.

Good habits and troubleshooting

- Resuming: if a session ends mid-book, start a new one and say "Genie, resume [Title]". Nothing is lost; Genie saves after every chapter.
- Daily driving: "Genie, standup" each morning shows status, anything waiting on you, and what is planned.
- Updates: when you receive an update from the studio, extract the zip and run the installer exactly as the update email describes. Your key, your books, and your settings all survive updates.
- Something looks wrong in a preview? Tell Genie in plain language, chapter and problem. It fixes and re-delivers. You never need technical terms.

Support

Questions, ideas, or anything unclear: post in the Genie WhatsApp support group (your welcome email has the invite link). Include your pack name (Starter / Pro / Max) and, if it is about a book, the book title.

Cheat sheet

You want	Say
Status and today's plan	"Genie, standup"
Niche ideas (PRO/MAX)	"Genie, find me 5 promising niches in ..."
Start a book	The brief template above
Hands-free production	"Genie, run on autopilot"
Fix a chapter	"Genie, chapter N: [what to change]"
Your own house style	"Genie, customize formatting for [category]"

Resume after a break	"Genie, resume [Title]"
Cover only	"Genie, design the cover for [Title]" (PRO/MAX)
Publish (MAX)	"Genie, publish [Title] to KDP"

Your first book is one message away. Send the brief.